TV mystery scenes shot at East Meon

East Meon was in the television spotlight when a film crew visited to shoot a mystery series.

The crew was in the village throughout last week filming scenes at the parish church and private houses for the Ruth Rendell stories.

The episode, May and June, is part of a series of mysteries being made by Blue Heaven Productions for Meridian Television.

A production company spokeswoman said the village had been picked because its historic look and architecture provided the "perfect location".

The programme will be screened on ITV later this year.
